This volume provides a practical exploration of one of today's most complex and challenging issues—the care of an elderly parent—with an innovative approach that emphasizes how rewarding the caregiver/care-receiver relationship can be. Appendices provide lists of print and online resources, a self-help directory, and practical advice on preparing for the financial toll of caregiving. Two chapters, The Man with 10,000 Names and Betty Brill's Diary provide astounding true accounts of the difficulties and triumphs of parental caregiving.
